Understanding Crediting Methods

Annual Point-to-Point Cap Indexed Account. Index growth is calculated from one contract anniversary to the next. If index growth is positive, the policyholder receives the lesser of the index growth and the cap rate.

Annual Point-to-Point Bailout Cap. If the next declared cap rate for this crediting strategy falls below the bailout rate during the surrender charge period, the surrender charges and Market Value Adjustment are waived for the total Account Value for a 30-day window.

Annual Point-to-Point Performance Trigger Indexed Account. This method measures the underlying index growth using two points in time: the beginning index value and the ending index value for the Contract Year. If there is an increase in the value of that index that equals or exceeds the Trigger Threshold, then the Indexed Credit Percentage equals the Interest Trigger. If there is a decrease in value of that index or the increase is less than the Trigger Threshold, then the Indexed Credit Percentage is zero.

Annual Point-to-Point Participation Indexed Account. Index growth is calculated from one contract anniversary to the next. If index growth is positive, it is multiplied by a Participation Percentage to determine the indexed interest to be credited on the contract anniversary.

Monthly Sum Cap Indexed Account. This method uses the twelve monthly changes in the underlying index during the Contract Year, subject to a Monthly Change Percentage Cap, and is based on the sum of all the monthly changes in the index (positive, negative, or no change). On each Contract Anniversary, these twelve monthly Indexed Change Percentages, each not to exceed the Monthly Change Percentage Cap, are added together to determine the Indexed Credit Percentage for the Contract Year. Negative monthly changes have no downside limit and can reduce the maximum Indexed Interest Credit, but the resulting Indexed Interest Credit will never be less than zero.

If money is received within that 60-day period and the rates have changed, we will guarantee the higher rate for one contract year. If we do not receive the money within the 60-day period, we will guarantee the rate in effect at the time the money is received. Submissions must be received no later than 3pm Central Time on the business day prior to the effective date of an interest rate decrease in order to hold the higher rate. Renewal rates depend on the Contract Issue Date: the application received date does not impact any rates beyond the first contract year.
